

Academic Council

Purpose & Function

The Policy Development, Approval and Dissemination Policy provides that three University Standing Committees, Academic Council, Employee Benefits Committee and the Policy Committee of the University, are authorized to recommend to the President of the University proposals to establish a new University policy or revise an existing University policy concerning their designated area of responsibility. This mandate is outlined in the December 14, 2018 revision to The Policy Development, Approval and Dissemination Policy.

In this capacity, the Academic Council is responsible to act upon:

- courses of action affecting curriculum policies;
- personnel policies only affecting faculty members; and
- policies whose impact is limited to only Academic Affairs.

Furthermore, the Policy Development, Approval and Dissemination Policy, requires that the Office of the Secretary of the University and General Counsel serve to provide administrative support and direction to the Academic Council and the Employee Benefits Committee for the development and dissemination of these policies.

The Academic Council serves to provide:

- a forum for communication, mutual support and coordination among academic deans and others who are directly responsible to the Provost;
- a means for the Provost to relate information from the President of the University or the President's Cabinet to the members;

- a means for Faculty Senate to maintain formal communication with the Provost, academic deans, and others who are directly responsible to the Provost.
